Jordan has worked for the Prudential Regulation Authority (previously the Financial Services Authority), a subsidiary to the Bank of England, for over 8 years. He works in the ILS team responsible for authorisation and supervision of Insurance Special Purpose Vehicles (ISPVs). Working with HM Treasury he led the design of the UK's regulatory framework for ISPVs which commenced in December 2017. Jordan has also taken up policy and actuarial roles within the PRA, having completed an MSc in Actuarial Finance at Imperial College London, and qualified as an actuary in December 2016. Prior to joining the PRA, Jordan graduated from Manchester University with an MSc in Statistics.
