

RUPERT ENGLISH

CEO

SteelRock Limited

Rupert English spent the first ten years of his career as a commercial lawyer, initially as a barrister and subsequently in private practice at a City firm and in industry, Rupert successfully made the transition into finance when he moved to an international investment bank. During the following ten years he was instrumental in building up and maintaining a highly successful business focused primarily on structured finance and debt capital market solutions in the TMT sector.

Since 2016, Rupert has been CEO and co-founder SteelRock Technologies (SRT), a security and technology startup, providing advanced lifesaving counter-UAV and UAV platforms. SteelRock Technologies is a UK-based company, headquartered in London with its design, testing and production facility in Wales.