Partner

Elborne Mitchell LLP

Andy Stevenson is a partner in the Reinsurance Group at Elborne Mitchell and specialises in (re)insurance litigation and sanctions matters. Andy joined Elbornes in 2006 and became a partner in 2016. His practice comprises handling insurance and reinsurance disputes of all varieties and advising on sanctions-related issues. He is also an arbitrator.

In the sanctions sphere Andy routinely provides advice to insurers, brokers and other businesses on issues arising out of international and domestic sanctions (UN, US/OFAC, EU, UK etc.). He is used to liaising HM Treasury/Office of Financial Sanctions Implementation to obtain licences for blocked transactions and has been involved in major litigation involving the scope of EU sanctions and the application of US secondary sanctions to English law contracts.

As a litigator he handles disputes involving many different classes of business (eg property and casualty, business interruption, professional indemnity, aviation, E&O, binding authorities), often with an international element. His work includes arbitration as well as High Court proceedings and mediations. Andy regularly gives presentations and seminars to industry groups and to firms on a variety of sanctions and insurance topics.
